

First, what is NCLW?

National Care Leavers Week (NCLW) is a time during the year when Local Authorities, charities, and businesses celebrate and raise awareness of Care Leavers. Each year, we consult with young people about what the theme of NCLW should be and what it involves. This year, we are also asking if Care Leavers are happy with it being a week or if they would want it to be longer.

Why have a theme for NCLW?

A theme gives a focus for NCLW. It helps raise awareness of specific issues and celebrate aspects of care. It also gives purpose to events, activities, and social media posts.

Why we want to hear from you

As the name suggests NCLW is all about those who are care leavers or care experienced people. It would only make sense that we want to hear from as many of them as possible about what it should be about or how long it is.

What do we want to know?

Do you think NCLW should be a week or a month?

Should NCLW be more about celebrating Care Leavers, raising awareness of Care Experience or a bit of both?

What would you want the theme of NCLW to be?

What events or activities would you like to go to during NCLW?

What would make NCLW a success?
